

eAppeals LLC acquires Medical Billing Resources

Hollywood, FL — September 17, 2007 — eAppeals LLC, one of the largest healthcare appeals processing companies in the United States, announced today the completion of the acquisition of Medical Billing Resources (MBR), a New Jersey-based billing and accounts receivable management company.

Medical Billing Resources, founded in 1985, provides billing, accounts receivable management, revenue optimization, and cash flow enhancement programs to over 25 hospitals and hospital physician practices in the New York and New Jersey area.

The acquisition, combined with eAppeals' current clients, gives eAppeals a leading position in the New York area for the collection of healthcare receivables. eAppeals offers a systemized electronic process for the management of disputed healthcare claims. It has combined its EZappeals™ system with MBR's billing and receivables management processes to create a seamless product offering for MBR's clients.

“We are very excited about this acquisition as it provides a great platform to grow our business. Further, this acquisition provides the foundation for eAppeals to acquire other similar businesses that offer billing and A/R management services to hospitals throughout the United States,” said Steven Griffin (“Griff”), President of eAppeals.

About eAppeals LLC

eAppeals LLC is the first company to have created and commercialized a standardized electronic system to process post-adjudicated disputed healthcare claims and the first company to offer hospitals and healthcare providers an end-to-end revenue cycle management solution for their healthcare receivables. Through the company's EZappeals™ system, eAppeals sets the standard for electronically processing denied, inappropriately paid or not promptly paid healthcare claims. eAppeals' solution enables hospitals and healthcare providers to increase their cash flow by collecting receivables that are either aging on their books or are written off because they (or their outside contractor) do not have the resources to process the large volume of disputable receivables or to handle the complicated procedures involved in the formal dispute resolution process. The Company submits the information in a standardized format to third party payers as a healthcare claim appeal and has a systematic process that monitors the escalation of these appeals through higher levels of dispute resolution. In addition, eAppeals has developed the extensive databases essential to an electronic solution for handling disputed healthcare claims, including submission addresses of the more than 3,000 appeal departments of insurance plans. The Company, with offices in Hollywood, Florida and Bloomfield, New Jersey, is a privately held company.
